Introduce yourself in a brief paragraph:

I am a qualified master mariner who first went to sea in 1981 following training on Training Ship Rajendra in Mumbai. After a seagoing career spanning 13 years, I came to work ashore in 1993 and ever since, I have been teaching at the Australian Maritime College. My students include undergraduate and postgraduate students who are enrolled in the University's maritime and logistics management program, as well as seafarers. My research area is crisis management.
