

Name:

PRASANNA

GAI

Introduce yourself in a brief paragraph: Prasanna Gai is Professor of International Economics in the Crawford School and a Senior Research Associate of the Financial Markets Group, London School of Economics (LSE). He is an academic adviser on financial stability matters to the Bank of England and the Bank of Canada. Prior to joining Crawford, he was Senior Adviser at the Bank of England responsible for directing the Bank's research work on systemic risk and editing the Financial Stability Review. Prasanna has also been a Fellow in Economics at the Research School of Pacific and Asian Studies, ANU, a visiting lecturer at the University of Oxford, an academic visitor to the Bank of International Settlements and the Reserve Bank of New Zealand, and a visiting fellow at the Hong Kong Institute of Monetary Research.