

Migrated to Australia in 1967, completed my secondary education in Melbourne and trained to become a Primary School teacher. Took up the position of Education Officer at the National Gallery of Victoria. After fourteen years was appointed to the inaugural position of Manager of Development & Public Programs at the Ian Potter Museum of Art, University of Melbourne. Retired from this position in 2007. Currently doing casual lecturing/tutoring in the postgraduate course, Cultural Heritage & Museum Studies, at Deakin University.
