

Name:

Vinathe

Sharma-Brymer

Introduce yourself in a brief paragraph: I am an educator with a psychology background. I have been teaching and researching in these two main fields. My specific interest lies in the areas of child psychology, early childhood development and education, ecopsychology, postcolonial studies, gender, education and development, human development. I have taught at undergraduate and postgraduate levels both in India and Australia (where I am currently living and working); I have worked with NGOs and donor agencies in India towards human development; I have researched in all the interest areas mentioned above.