Introduce yourself in a brief paragraph:

My PhD concentrated on the nutritional status and labour supply of rural households in India. The intrahousehold bargaining process was modeled and empirically tested using the NSSO data and Human Development Index of (NCAER). Both non-parametric and parametric techniques were used for the estimation.

Presently, I am working at the Centre for Health Economics at Monash University, Clayton. My present research involves modeling Health Related Quality of Life instruments and mapping between these instruments using Australian data for various disease groups.
