

Name

Dr. Sekhar V.C. Somenahalli

Paragraph to introduce yourself

Sekhar Somenahalli is a lecturer at the University of South Australia, Adelaide, Australia. Sekhar has a Bachelors degree in Civil (Transport) Engineering from Bangalore University, India, Masters Degree in Transportation Planning from the School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi, India and PhD from University of South Australia. Sekhar currently teaches courses related to Transportation Planning and Geographic Information Systems (GIS). He has over five years of consulting experience and over 14 years of teaching and research experience and worked in India, Malaysia and Australia. His research interests include public transport service planning and application of GIS in the area of transportation planning. His career objective is to continue in an academic/research position, which has contributive research and active consulting components besides teaching, in the area of GIS, Planning, and related fields. His key areas of strength include Transportation Planning, Public Transport Service Planning, Geographic Information Systems (GIS), Transport Demand Modeling, and Traffic Management.